Ubisoft will now control where Call of Duty and other Activision Blizzard games show up on cloud gaming services, with the exception of EU countries and the various cloud gaming deals Microsoft signed previously.

If you live in a country that s part of the European Economic Area (EEA) which includes EU countries and also Iceland, Liechtenstein, and Norway then you l get a free license to stream via any cloud game streaming services of their choice all current and future Activision Blizzard PC and console games that you have purchased.

If you re outside the EEA, then it s up to Ubisoft which services get cloud streaming rights for Activision Blizzard games, including licensing these back to Microsoft to include in Xbox Cloud Gaming. In theory, Ubisoft could deny Microsoft a license for future Activision Blizzard games, but in reality, that s extremely unlikely to happen. Microsoft will need to pay a wholesale arrangement fee to license Activision Blizzard games for its cloud services, though.

It s also legally possible for Ubisoft to offer Activision Blizzard games exclusively on certain cloud providers but, again, very unlikely. I say unlikely because unlike secret deals in the games industry for exclusivity or to keep games off Xbox Game Pass, everyone knows Ubisoft is controlling the rights here , and the company would face a backlash if it attempted to deny or block games from certain cloud services. Cloud providers will also still be offered a free li
